In 2001, “Nutbag” was picked up at the Cannes International Film Festival for European (England) distribution by ITN Distribution. The UK cut the film by over 6 minutes. “Nutbag” was sold in America (DVD) by Fright Flix Productions.

“Sinister” was used by director Nick Palumbo to raise money for a new feature film. “Sinister” is 4 minutes long and shot on 35mm film. It stars Gunnar Hansen and was shot on location in New York City in the winter of 2002.

“Murder-Set-Pieces” (shot on 35mm film) has become an international cult phenomenon. “M-S-P” played theatrically in the major cities in North America and was the Midnight Madness main selection at the prestigious Sitges International Film Festival in Barcelona, Spain in 2005.

Lionsgate Films in North America distributed “Murder-Set-Pieces” in a heavily cut version (23 minutes edited - a record.) “M-S-P” has been distributed by multiple distributors in Europe and Asia, including Universal Pictures.

“Murder-Set-Pieces” has recently been the subject of major controversy, as reported by Variety and The Hollywood Reporter; the BBFC in the UK has banned Palumbo’s notorious second feature film on February 28th, 2008. It is the first outright ban of a narrative 35mm feature film in a quarter of a century.
